

Brussels Airlines Belgian Icons series

As the fifth Belgian Icon, Aerosmurf joins Rackham, Magritte, Trident and Amare in the Belgian Icons series. To carry out the best of Belgium to the world, Brussels Airlines decided to dedicate a plane to Tintin in 2015.

With Aerosmurf the company launches a possible successor for Rackham as one of the most photographed planes in the world.

Two years later Magritte followed together with Trident, dedicated to the Belgian national soccer team.

Brussels Airlines will this year, just like two years ago for the European Championship, bring the Red Devils and their fans to the World Cup in Russia. On the 13th of June the flight with the Red Devils on board will take off to Russia.

In 2017 Brussels Airlines and Tomorrowland created Amare, a tribute to the iconic Belgian music festival. This summer Brussels Airlines' party flights will again bring the People of Tomorrow from all over the world to Tomorrowland in Boom.

(source: brussels airlines)